Upcoming Lectures

Friday July 14, 2017

About that Native American Grandmother...

Yvonne Mashburn Schmidt, Certified Genealogist®, will present "About That Native American Grandmother: Clues That Help & Hinder Our Family Stories." Using three case studies of families who have native ancestral stories and whose ancestors were racially identified as black and white, attendees will gain guidance about how to conduct Native American research and how to recognize the clues that can be used as evidence and provide credibility for their stories.

Friday August 11, 2017

Protecting the Treasures of Oakland Cemetery

Ashley Shares, Preservation Manager, Historic Oakland Foundation, engages in all aspects of hardscape restoration, which includes monuments, walls and pathways. She will discuss how the foundation functions and the preservation issues at Oakland Cemetery. Using examples from some of their past and current projects, Ashley will share both how and why HOF preserves their historic documents, landscapes and hardscapes.

Friday September 8, 2017

Georgia Archives: Recent Building Upgrades

Kim Norman and Adam Parnell, Georgia Archives staff members, will discuss recently upgraded building functions, improved environmental monitoring, heightened security, operational efficiencies, and overall collection care. There will be a tour following the program.

Sponsored by the Friends of Georgia Archives and History (FOGAH)
