INVENTORY

BARILI, Alfredo, Family Papers, 1836, ca. 1850-1959, and n.d. 95
folders and 10 volumes. 1116 items, 1759 pieces: 508 original loose papers, 1035 pieces; 349 printed items, 459 pieces; 259 graphics, 265 pieces. 5.75 cu. ft.

Donors: Mary Barili (Mrs. J. Wickliffe) Goldsmith, Anne Barili
(Mrs. J.B.) Carmichael, and Alfredo Barili III.

Letters, musical scores, publicity, and photographs of a well-known Atlanta musical family, collected by the eldest daughter, Louise (b. 1880). Her father, Alfredo (1854-1935), was the nephew of Adelina Patti (1843-1919), the opera singer; and many of her letters and photographs appear here also.

Alfredo Barili was born in Italy, the son and grandson of musicians, and reared in New York near his grandmother Catalina Patti. He made his musical debut at eight and studied in the U.S., France, and Germany, where he met his future wife, Emily Vezin, also a musician. They married in 1877 and soon moved to Atlanta to escape the effect of the harsh Northern winters on Alfredo's health.

Initially they were employed by the Atlanta Female Institute (ca. 1880), then the Washington Seminary, and finally opened the Barili School of Music in their home. Alfredo, his wife, and Louise Barili all taught music. Alfredo composed, the "Cradle Song" being the most famous, organized musical groups, such as the Polyhymnia Club, a women's chorus, and directed visiting orchestras.

The Barilis had two other children, Viola (b. 1882), a mime and elocutionist, and Alfredo II (b. 1887), an architect. In their later years the Barilis lived in Midtown on West Fifth Street and, beginning in 1909, at 167 Myrtle Avenue. Mr. Barili was killed by a bus in 1935.

Alfredo Barili's father was Ettore Barili, an elder half brother of Adelina Patti, who lived near him when she was young and helped care for the infant Alfredo. Despite her large family of many relatives, Ms. Patti remained close to Alfredo's family and had them to stay with her several times in the early 20th century at her Welsh castle, Craig-Y-Nos. Adelina wrote numerous letters to the Barilis, and these are preserved in the collection (Series Two) along with a large number of photographs (Series Three) and programs.

Emily Vezin (1856-1940) was born in Philadelphia to Charles and Lina K. Vezin, German musicians. Charles was the American consul to Germany. Emily's brothers, Charles and Frederick, became artists, and some their work and letters are in the collection. The Vezins left many relatives behind in Germany, particularly Charles' sister Louise's family, the Hasenclevers. Photographs and genealogy of these families are in Series Three and Five.

Alfredo Barili II left three children, the donors. Mary Barili Goldsmith is the mother of: Mary McGowan Goldsmith (Mrs. James O.) Cassell; Jere Wickliffe Goldsmith, Jr.; and William Barili Goldsmith. Alfredo Barili III is survived by Laurie Randolph (Randy) Barili (Mrs. David J.) Harris.

SERIES ONE: Printed and Other Materials, 1866-1958. 36 folders.
402 items, 594 pieces: 57 original loose papers, 139
pieces; 345 printed items, 455 pieces. 1.75 cu. ft.

News clippings, articles, musical programs, sheet music, poems, and biographical notes concerning Barili family members, Adelina Patti, the Vezin family, Lucy May Stanton, and Amy (Mrs. H.H.A.) Beach. An excellent source of biographical material, the items cover mainly 1880-1930, Alfredo's professional years in Atlanta and Adelina Patti's years at Craig-Y-Nos before her death in 1919.

SERIES TWO: Letters, 1836, 1873-1959, and n.d. 33 folders. 445 original loose papers, 890 pieces. 1 cu. ft.

The series consists of 18 folders of letters written by the opera singer Adelina Patti to the family of her nephew, Alfredo Barili, especially her great niece, Louise. The Barilis made several trips to Wales to visit Adelina Patti at her castle Craig-Y-Nos, the last in 1914, which account for the letters Louise Barili wrote to family and friends. The series is arranged by family member, thereunder chronologically, starting with Adelina Patti, and ending with 15 folders of extended families, friends, and acquaintances. The letters reveal Patti's interest in her family's welfare and her opinions of society and her career. A list of all her letters appears at the end of this inventory.

Of the Barili children Patti felt closest to Louise Barili to whom she wrote a great many letters and even considered adopting. Louise Barili preserved her aunt's correspondence, as well as other family members', including her mother's family, the Vezins; she also included her own correspondence, which accounts for the letters of Louise Barili's friends and acquaintances.

Box Folder

- 2 2-01 Adelina Patti Letters to Alfredo Barili, 1873. 1 original loose paper, 1 piece.

Patti discusses her nephew's career.

- 2-02 Adelina Patti Letters, 1890-1900. 41 original loose papers, 70 pieces.

Letters concern Patti's interest in family matters of the Barilis; her concerts, concert schedules, and song selections; and social engagements relating to these tours where she was entertained and presented to royalty, lesser nobility, and prominent political figures, such as William E. Gladstone and Queen Victoria (January 7, 1895). She performed for the Queen and later that year (April 20, 1895) won the Beethoven medal. Patti also discussed her personal life, relating to her second husband's (Ernest Nicolini) last illness and her announcement to marry Baron Rolf Cederstrom. Her way of life was established: concert tours, trips to the Continent, and an interest in her family. A number of early letters have the signature excised.

- 2-03 Adelina Patti Letters, 1901-1904. 40 original loose papers, 88 pieces.

2 2-03 (cont.) These letters continue Patti's interest in her family, establishing a close relationship to Louise Barili. Her excursions to the Continent became firmly established as a summer retreat where, for health reasons from 1904-1914, Patti spent July-August at health spas in Mont-Dore-Les Bains and/or Carlsbad.

2-04 Adelina Patti Letters, 1905. 22 original loose papers, 47 pieces.

Patti's concern for the Barili family's welfare and health.

2-05 Adelina Patti Letters, 1906. 19 original loose papers, 57 pieces.

Concerts, and social events, charity work, and family matters are discussed.

2-06 Adelina Patti Letters, 1907. 31 original loose papers, 67 pieces.

Continues previous year.

3 2-07 Adelina Patti Letters, 1908. 21 original loose papers, 65 pieces.

Patti commented on the offer to Louise Barili to teach music in Jacksonville, FL (see Madeline Kiepp Letter, 7/27/1908 in folder 2-25).

2-08 Adelina Patti Letters, 1909. 13 original loose papers, 27 pieces.

Inquiries about the Barilis' health and comments about her own.

2-09 Adelina Patti Letters, 1910. 21 original loose papers, 43 pieces.

Box Folder

- 3 2-10 Adelina Patti Letters, 1911. 20 original loose papers, 40 pieces.

During this time Alfredo and Louise Barili visited Adelina Patti in Wales.

- 2-11 Adelina Patti Letters, 1912. 19 original loose papers, 41 pieces.

Adelina commented on the 1912 coal strike in England and also sent a letter with music written in it (April 26, 1912).

- 2-12 Adelina Patti Letters, 1913. 26 original loose papers, 46 pieces.

- 2-13 Adelina Patti Letters, 1914. 10 original loose papers, 21 pieces.

Alfred and Louise Barili visited Adelina in Wales. While Patti was at Carlsbad, World War I broke out and she commented about it and the Germans. She discussed her husband's health and the effect of his father's death.

- 2-14 Adelina Patti Letters, 1915. 10 original loose papers, 24 pieces.

The letters comment on the war's effect: working for the war effort and acquaintances losing loved ones at the front. These letters also show Patti's need to go abroad for health.

- 2-15 Adelina Patti Letters, 1916. 12 original loose papers, 24 pieces.

All of these letters are written to Louise. Instead of Carlsbad, Adelina Patti's doctors sent her to Brighton where she was given hope for recovery. Mabel Woodford, a godchild and her secretary, was at the castle in August.

- 2-16 Adelina Patti Letters, 1917. 7 original loose papers, 15 pieces.

3 2-16 (cont.) Patti's secretary, Mr. Alcock, died, and she was unable to find a replacement for him. She longed to go abroad for her medical problems and also mentioned the Atlanta fire (June 2, 1917).

2-17 Adelina Patti Letters, 1918-1919. 12 original loose papers, 24 pieces.

Patti complained that the Welsh climate for the last four years had affected her health and continued to want to go abroad to improve her health. She condemned the Germans, for whom she had contempt.

2-18 Adelina Patti Letter Fragments. 9 original loose papers, 10 pieces.

2-19 Adelina Patti Incoming Letters, 1890 and 1906. 2 original loose papers, 3 pieces.

A copy of an 1890 William E. Gladstone letter, thanking Patti for the throat lozenges she gave him while he was making a speech. The 1906 letter is written in Italian by Amalia, Adelina Patti's sister.

2-20 Baron Rolf Cederstrom Letters, 1906-1920. 15 original loose papers, 22 pieces.

These letters cover life at the castle, family business, and the Baron's opinions of conditions in Europe after World War I. He mentioned Adelina's health and announced her death, September 27, 1919.

4 2-21 Alfredo Barili Letters, 1890, 1914, and n.d. 5 original loose papers, 7 pieces.

Letters written to Emily and Louise Barili concerning family matters.

2-22 Alfredo Barili Incoming Letters, 1881, 1902-1907, and 1933. 6 original loose papers, 6 pieces.

AC 67-601 INVENTORY - 10

4 2-22 (cont.) The letters contain a medical prescription and business letters, an answer from Edward MacDowell concerning a concert in Atlanta, and a letter of appreciation from the Atlanta Music Club.

2-23 Emily Barili Letters, 1916, 1939, and n.d. 4 original loose papers, 6 pieces.

Post cards to Louise Barili and a letter to the National Committee for Music Appreciation in which Emily Barili discussed Alfredo Barili's career and her and Louise's role in aiding him.

2-24 Emily Barili Incoming Letters, 1919, 1929, and n.d. 4 original loose papers, 6 pieces.

This folder contains a thank-you note from Albert Payson Terhune for poems sent by Emily Barili; a letter asking Emily to get Alfredo Barili to clarify points in Adelina Patti's career and to reminisce about the past; also a signed post card of Johanna Godski.

2-25 Madeline Keipp Letters, 1908. 3 original loose papers, 8 pieces.

These are letters written to Emily and Louise Barili, offering Louise a position to teach music in Jacksonville, FL, at the School of Musical Art.

2-26 Louise Barili Letters, 1906-1928, and n.d. 12 original loose papers, 24 pieces.

The letters mainly deal with Louise Barili's family and Vezin relations. Louise wrote during three visits to Adelina Patti, in 1906, 1911, and 1914. One letter and reply concern Mrs. Beach (see Folder 2-28). Another letter is a copy of the reply Louise Barili sent to Baron Rolf Cederstrom thanking him for sending Aunt Adelina Patti's broach to her, the same broach that Queen Victoria gave to Adelina after the 1895 recital at Windsor Castle.
