Georgia Archives to Host 2024 African American Symposium with Generous Grant from Clayton County Tourism Authority

The Georgia Archives is pleased to announce its acceptance of a significant grant from the Clayton County Tourism Authority, which will be utilized to host the highly anticipated Annual African American Symposium scheduled for February 2024.

The partnership between the Georgia Archives and the Clayton County Tourism Authority exemplifies a shared commitment to celebrating the vibrant history, culture, and contributions of African Americans. The 2024 African American Symposium will provide an invaluable opportunity for scholars, historians, and community members to engage in meaningful discussions, presentations, and dialogues. This event aims to shed light on pivotal moments, stories, and achievements that have shaped communities and inspired generations and to foster a deeper understanding of the multifaceted aspects of African American heritage. It will serve as a platform to explore themes of resilience, innovation, and the enduring legacy of African Americans in Georgia and the South.

As the event's details continue to take shape, further announcements regarding speakers, topics, and schedules will be released closer to the event date. The Georgia Archives expresses its profound gratitude to the Clayton County Tourism Authority for their generous grant, which will undoubtedly contribute to the success and impact of the upcoming African American Symposium.

The Georgia Archives is a unit of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. The Georgia Archives identifies, collects, manages, preserves, provides access to, and publicizes records and information of Georgia and its people, and assists state and local government agencies with their records management.
